

ABSTRACT

A preform overcladding device is provided. The preform overcladding device includes an injector for providing particles having a predetermined material, and a preheater for preheating the particles provided by the injector. The preform overcladding device also includes a heater for heating and depositing onto a preform the particles preheated by the preheater.